NOTTS. I 10-10 HUNTS. I

This match, Notts' final one in the East Midlands zone was predicted to be little more than a formality (by your captain in the last bulletin). Predictably I fell flat on my face and very nearly had to commit hari-kari.

The match took place at the headquarters of the Peterborough Conservative Association to the accompaniment of much hammering and sawing from downstairs (is this an omen for the next election?). Either this or the hypnotic gaze from a portrait of Margaret Thatcher caused our players to perform very badly and produce the worst Notts. I result for several years.

As usual a bad attack of travel phobia struck the Notts. team when called on to visit such exotic venues and a much weaker team than turned out for the last two home matches was obtained. A further blow was Mark Thomas forgetting about the match and the team having to travel a board short.

Even so we outgraded the opposition by an average of 15-20 points per board and should (on paper) have won comfortably. However, despite the upper boards playing solidly if unspectacularly the match went disastrously wrong and at one stage a comfortable loss for Notts. seemed inevitable - then the swindles started (the good player is always lucky). John Cooper's opponent allowed his king and queen to be forked in roughly an equal position whilst in a simple endgame Chris Dunworth lost a knight and proceeded to play as if nothing had happened and eventually won a peculiar king and pawn ending. Your captain, as black, sacrificed a piece on move eight, then pretended to attack for the next twenty moves and, just as the position was becoming hopelessly lost (in contrast to merely lost), my opponent returned the piece. After making the last sixteen moves in four minutes the smoke cleared, leaving a winning king and pawn ending.

It is hoped that everyone's nerves will have recovered for the Midlands semi-final versus Staffordshire at Stafford on March 19th where Notts. by some quirk of fate have managed to draw one of the weaker West Midlands sides - but then we thought Hunts. were weak!

Finally one of the few proper games played in the match in which Norman Lazonby plays the line in the Sicilian Najdorf popularised by Fischer but later largely abandoned. White's 10. Bd5, although threatening, does not seem to be anything special, 10... Qc7 in reply seems fairly safe.

NOTTS. II 10-10 DERBYS. II

After the expected victory over Northants. II by 13 boards to 7 the final match of the qualifying competition against Derbyshire was held on 5th February. This was a match which had to be won 13½ to 6½ in order to qualify to meet the winners of the Western section of the M.C.C.U. II team competition. After a promising start, leading 6 boards to 3, the match went away from us and at adjudication time the match stood 10-9 to Derbyshire. The adjudicator found in our favour and the final result was a 10-10 draw. This left Derbyshire as the somewhat surprise winners of the section, and we wish them good luck in the competition.

THIRD TEAM Your editor was among the guilty when the county third team went down to Leicestershire on 19th February, but being rather disappointed at losing a rook in a good/winning position, failed to notice any details further to the fact that we lost. There are two remaining matches this season; away to Manchester on 19th March and away to Warwicks. on 9th April.

NOTTINGHAMSHIRE UNDER-16 AND UNDER-18 CHAMPIONSHIP Jenny Waddingham writes:

Despite publication of this event appearing in the last three bulletins only a disappointing entry of seven was received.

It would appear that the information was not passed on to the juniors in the various clubs by the team captains to whom these bulletins are issued (despite a very prominent request to do just that in Bulletin No. 3. This really is a pathetic state of affairs - Ed.), which is frustrating when seen in the light of complaints in previous years of the lack of publicity and advance notice about the various events organised by the Notts. Chess Association. How can we give better notice than it appearing in three consecutive editions of the bulletin?

Notwithstanding the small entry the quality of the competitors was excellent and in the circumstances the playing area was spacious. The event was made into an all-play-all which made the time schedule very tight, but the eventual winners were;

Notts. Under-18 Champion: G. Waddingham
Notts. Under-16 Champion: C. Dunworth

(The cross-table for this event appears at the end of the Division Five League results...)

This bulletin is edited by Tim Lane on behalf of the Nottinghamshire Chess Association. It is considerations of space and time, rather of the quality of the material, that has stopped me from carrying out my threat to publish some of my games this month. Meanwhile, if anyone connected with Nottinghamshire chess has any material of their own (either games or otherwise) which they believe will be of interest to local players, their contributions will be welcome. By April 5th, please (not forgetting that postal collections are a bit limited over Easter), so that the Bulletin can be out in the week leading up to the Nottingham Congress.

Tim Lane,
